ILYA ZBOROVSKY

Hon. Commissioner of Patents and Trademarks
Washington, D.C. 20231

Sir:

This application deals with a method and a product of advertising a book, in which a scene is staged which represents a content of a selected portion of the book. The application is based on the provisional application.

It has been found that Barnes & Nobles started advertising with the use of the basic inventive idea of this patent application. The approach of the Barnes & Nobles is exactly identical, and the Company uses advertising in which a portion of a new book is staged on the Internet. This exactly corresponds to the claims of the present application, and claims 1 and 5 are unquestionable infringed.

A search has been conducted and it has been found that there is no prior art which is relevant for the examination of the present application.

It is therefore respectfully submitted, based on MPEP

708.2 II, to make the application special and to speed up the examination.

Respectfully submitted,

Ilya Zborovskiy
